THERE are a number of businesses opportunities in the region's newest town, with the chance to join national retailers at Plainland Crossing.

The development is located on the Warrego Hwy, halfway between Brisbane and Toowoomba in the Lockyer Valley.

Plainland Crossing is an emerging new town centre featuring a more than 200-lot residential sub-division, a retail and commercial precinct and major travel centre.

With construction well under way, the site is quickly becoming a large residential area, along with the development of shopping centres, schools and other businesses.

Plainland Crossing, June 2017: Work is underway for Plainland Crossing.

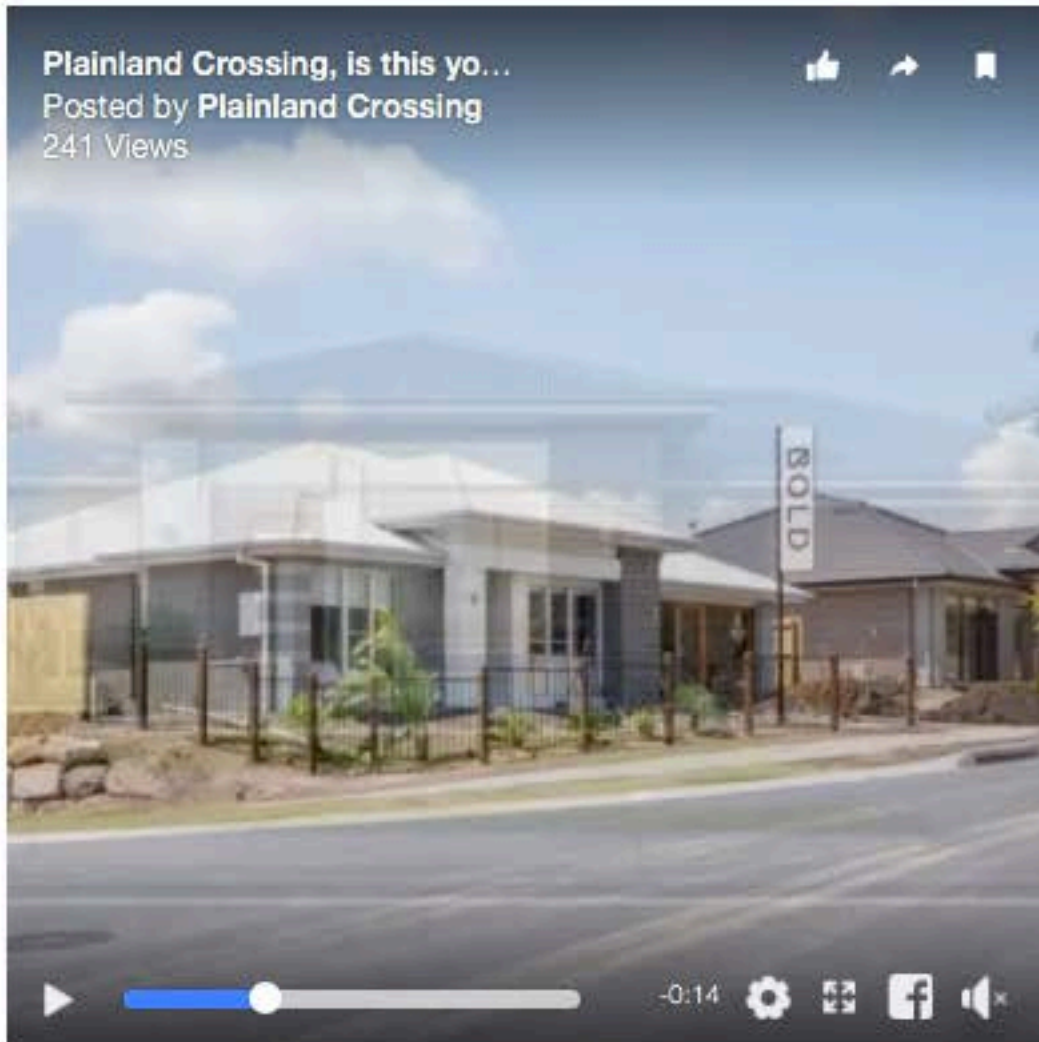

There are 11 lots available for new businesses, with five already sold.

Expressions of interest will be accepted until Monday, November 20.

There is the opportunity to join national food brands including McDonalds, KFC, Hungry Jacks, The Coffee Club and Subway.

It is already home to Woolworths and an Aldi will also open soon.

Bridgestone Tyres is looking to open in November and a child care centre is hoping to open at the end of the year or early 2018.

Lockyer Valley Regional Council Mayor Tanya Milligan said the development was about bringing business and employment to the area.

"We are just really excited, excited about jobs, future growth and industry and employment," she said.

"We hope it will be one of those catalysts for young people to stay in the region."
